This could include but is not limited to:

- deliberate intimidation;
- harassing photography;
- sustained disruption of talks or other events;

We reserve the right to refuse entry or revoke accreditation to Festival events and venues without notice for those who engage in such conduct. If you experience a violation of this Code of Conduct at the Festival please contact a member of staff.

All violations of the law should also be reported to local law enforcement. For emergencies, immediately dial 911.

We strive to work and walk responsibly, professionally and caringly at all times and ask that you share this commitment to fostering a supportive, loving and safe Festival environment.
